1	(Change in court reporter.)
2	FACILITATOR: Then I have Thane
3	Maxwell. Just a name and spelling, please.
4	MR. THANE MAXWELL: All right. Thank
5	you for the opportunity to speak. My name is Thane
6	Maxwell, T-H-A-N-E, M-A-X-W-E-L-L.
7	UNIDENTIFIED: Pull the mic close,
8	please.
9	MR. THANE MAXWELL: Okay, thank you.
10	Is that good?
11	I gave some comments yesterday in
12	Grand Rapids. Don't worry, I'm not going to comment
13	at all 22 meetings, I promise.
14	But I just really wanted to say a few
15	things today because I'm really moved by how many
16	people from the community came out here today, I can
17	see you are very concerned about this, and I wanted
18	to support you as you stand up and protect your
19	community here.
20	So I've been looking at the EIS for
21	the past few weeks, ever since it was released, and
22	I wanted to share some of the things that I've seen
23	and share some of my interpretations of it.
24	You know, as you notice, I feel it is
25	really unfair to you all to ask you to comment on a document that doesn't have some of the most important things in it. That doesn't have the economic need analysis in it. That doesn't have spill modeling information in it. That doesn't have the contamination plan that Enbridge promises to give us later for the contamination that they find when they abandon Line 3 or remove it. Hopefully remove it.

So, you know, here's something that is also not in the EIS that you can say. When someone stands up here and tells you that it's a fact that pipelines are safer than rail, okay, well, when someone stands up and tells you that, that is actually not a fact. There is no way to compare two different kinds of violence like that. Pipelines spill less frequently, but they spill more volume each time they spill, okay. So pipelines are more likely to spill in a rural area where you're going to affect someone's water sources, the aquifers, the lakes, the rivers, the farmland, that sort of thing. The places where people are more immediately dependent on the health of their natural resources. Rail is more likely to spill in an urban area and blow up and kill somebody. How do you compare those two things? You cannot. That's not in the EIS and I think it should be.

The other thing I wanted to point out in the EIS is understanding the probabilities of spills. There's two different numbers in there. One gives the annual probability of a spill in Minnesota on Enbridge's preferred route that says 25 percent. So every four years we're going to have spills in Minnesota on Enbridge's lines. But then it gives a different set of stats and it breaks it down by the size of the spill and it gives totally different numbers which to me seem mathematically I'm confused about the data and we incompatible. need check on them.

But those numbers are the following: The chance of a small spill each year in Minnesota is 107 percent. So at least one a year, a small spill. The chance of a medium size spill, 8 The chance of a large spill is 6 percent. percent. And the chance of a catastrophic spill is 1.1 So I did a little math. If this pipeline percent. runs 50 years, and keep in mind that some of these old ones are running 60, 65 years already. Let's say it runs 50 years. We can expect 14 pinhole leaks, 54 small leaks, four mediums, three larges, and one catastrophic spill. So that's what we're signing up for. And that's the risk you're asked to assume.

When they say on the tribal resources map over there that tribal communities will be disproportionately impacted, and the tribal resources that are essential to the survival of these people will be disproportionately impacted. That's what we're talking about. That's the risk we're talking about.

And we talk about the risk of the headwaters, that's what we're looking at, 76 spills in the lifetime of this pipeline. And that's according to their data, which I was just getting at. When we look at the data of Enbridge's history we find much higher numbers.

The other question I'm really thinking needs to be answered. And we're in Grand Rapids, there are a lot of people who are very concerned about this abandonment question. A lot of people really don't feel that Enbridge should be able to leave that in the ground and walk away.

So we commented a lot last night about all of those things that actually should be in the EIS, the impact of that and assess the risk, but one thing that I think is really important for this community here is what are they going to do with the other three ancient lines they have in that pipeline corridor? There is absolutely no mention of that. And it's not like Enbridge hasn't thought of it and doesn't have a plan. Those three lines are also just about done. They all in a state of deterioration. Are those three lines coming over here, too? Are you being asked to accept one pipeline or four? I think that needs to be in there.

The other thing, I want to encourage you to question and look at more closely is the alternatives that are offered and compared to Enbridge's preferred route. So in the certificate of need permit decision, which is what this is all about, the PUC decides whether Enbridge gets the pipeline, the certificate of need.

They compare the preferred route to several alternatives. Seven of them, actually. And some of them, quite frankly, are absurd. The rail option assumes that they would build a new rail terminal at the border.

I'll wrap up in a second.

They would do a new rail terminal at the border and ship everything by rail from the partial new pipeline that they built through Canada. They would never do that. Similar for the truck option, they would never do that. And the no-build option, which we've mentioned already, is defined as continued use of Line 3. You can't let them distort your options that way. They don't get to decide what the options are based on Enbridge's ability to sell something. That's just unreasonable.

So I encourage you to push back on What we want is we want the no-build option that. and shut down Line 3 'cause it's poisoning people That's what we're asking for. right now. And the way that we do that is we call them the third certificate of need consideration, which is very conveniently not listed on the sign over there. The sign over there says when they consider the certificate of need that they think about two things. One, the need of the pipeline; and two, the alternatives, the alternative routes. The third thing that by Minnesota statute they have to consider, is the pipeline in the best interest of They left that out. society.

And that's what we're looking for here. No build. Shutdown of Line 3. It's in the best interest of society.

1	Thank you very much.

3	FACILITATOR: Is it Raymond Peterson?
4	Raymond, are you here?
5	Okay. He left. Thank you.
6	So it is at our time at 1:00 so I'm
7	just going to talk about next steps.
8	Again, there are comments for written
9	comments over here in the comment box. All will be
LO	incorporated in the public comment process which the L1	agencies will consider. If you want to send in
L2	written comments later than today, July 10th is the
